So, there we have it. The statements were either not mine, or backed up by plenty scientific evidence or they didn't need any evidence.

You know Marty, I think most of us that post here could really give two shits if you agree or disagree-. Instead of insulting the information, and asking questions that I could bring to her next I'm out in that area, there is always this strange cult like thinking between individuals here that enjoy engaging in bullying. You really need to read the charter; no one has to prove jack shit about anything---it is a consumer newsgroup----you asked me to get more information; I did. Then you claim it doesn't work---how would you even know? You wouldn't.
