

cab stencil painting– how much time between coats/colors?

cab stencil painting– how much time between coats/colors?

Source: <http://newsgroups.derkeiler.com/Archive/Rec/rec.games.pinball/2008-01/msg20223.html>

- From: dcerny <dcerny@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 31 Jan 2008 13:13:57 -0800 (PST)
-

Alright

I am taking the plunge. After procrastinating for many months, I have my cab stripped and sanded, ready for painting and stenciling. But the all important question....

How long between coats and colors?

It's a Black Knight. I am going to be spraying a gray primer, then black base, then two colored stencils (red and yellow)

I know on Jeff's site, he had his start to finish time as almost a month. Reading Pinball Pal's info– the job sounds more like an afternoon.

I feel like I've read every thread on the subject, too, but haven't really gotten a grasp of how long is too long or how short is too short as far as dry times. I am sticking with all the same brand– Painter's Touch– start to finish. So no compability problems.

Any thoughts on how long I ought to wait from primer to base to stencil to stencil?

Thanks
dan c

.