

123-reg-co.uk Setting Up

Source: <http://newsgroups.derkeiler.com/Archive/Uk/uk.net/2005-10/msg00001.html>

- From: gazza@xxxxxxxxxxx
 - Date: 24 Oct 2005 12:10:32 -0700
-

Hi,

Last Wednesday I went and rented a windows dedicated server of 123-Reg.co.uk. It was a good price and although the support hours of 9-6 Mon-Fri didn't seem great, I went for it.

On Friday, I transferred my existing domain to them and for the life of me, I think everything is configured correctly, but my site was down all weekend. Never mind, thought I, I will give them a ring on Monday, so I finished work early today to ring their 50p / min line... to be met (at 5:35pm) with "123-reg Support is now closed - support hours are 9am to 6pm Mon to Fri" !!!

So I am stuffed for another night, and I'm afraid to go on MSN for everyone badgering me!

Has anyone any advice they can give me on getting this thing running. Currently I have set up a holding page (via their on-line wizard), but if I remove it I get to a 123-reg page.

The domain is 3inabed.com (darts - nothing dirty :-). I have created an account on my dedicated server and mapped 3inabed.com to it. I have placed all my files in the "www" directory by ftp. What have I missed? - Or am I waiting for 123-Reg to flip some switch?

All advice appreciated.

Gary

- Prev by Date: make me horny with net
- Next by Date: excellent free chat prog' with fun interactive avatars
- Previous by thread: make me horny with net
- Next by thread: excellent free chat prog' with fun interactive avatars
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread