

Re: o/t Its been great fun

Source: <http://newsgroups.derkeiler.com/Archive/Uk/uk.rec.competitions/2005-09/msg03002.html>

- From: "Inger Morris" <inger.morris@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 19 Sep 2005 00:42:23 +0000 (UTC)
-

And the best of British luck to you....as the saying used to go.

Regards

Inger

"^A^ngel" <voodoo_virgin\(MYWINGS\)@htomail.com@htomail.com)> wrote in message news:Dj9Xe.27559\$Aa1.18715@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

>

> Hi guys,

>

> Well Im going to unsubscribe from the ng later, at least until around June > time. Im starting an OU course that I need to make time for, and Im sure > those of you who have studied this way know how much time is needed. I > work full-time and as a single mum, I know its going to be hard work but > hopefully I will reap the benefits in the long run. To make time, > something has to go, and the thing I spend the most time at each week is > comping..... its not so heart-breaking to give it up (and I doubt I'll > give it up totally..... I meanwho can resist a competition in the local > paper or on the radio? LOL) but I have had an appalling year of wins.
> Usually by now I have several things, even if its just small things, put > away for the kids for Christmas and it really helps out, but this year, > there's absolutely nothing in the Christmas pot :-(Im also getting fed > up with tales of people either cheating or not sticking with the spirit of > competitions, or tales of greed, because I really don't agree with people > entering comps for anything and everything regardless of whether they want > or can use it..... Generally compers are a fairly honest bunch, at least > the ones I have corresponded with over the year are :-)

>

> I'm sure I'll pop in from time to time but I know I won't have to time to > devote to it that I do at the moment so unsubscribing from the ng removes > the temptatation to do competitions when I should be working or writing an > essay LOL. I also think that not having won much this year makes it so > much easier to give up.

>

> I'll probably still hang around Loquax for a while and maybe if I get half > an hour at the weekend hit the closing soon stuff but thats about all its > going to be and suspect there will be times when I won't even have time to > do that, but until I start studying, its difficult to tell :-)

>

> Thanks for the laughs and the advice over the years. Look after Steffi and

Re: o/t Its been great fun

> don't let him annoy too many people.
>
> See you all (hopefully) in June when I will have finished the first part > of my course :-)
>
> Hope you all win loads.
>
> Chris
>
> --
>
>  Remove MYWINGS to reply *****
>
>  Feel my heat taking you higher, burn with me, heaven's on fire!!!!
> *****
>

-
- Prev by Date: Re: Signed Shelly Poole CD's
 - Next by Date: Re: Win Star Trek: Enterprise Season 3 on DVD!
 - Previous by thread: Re: o/t Its been great fun
 - Next by thread: 2GB White iPod Nano
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread